Biography

Mark Davis* (he/him/his) is a partner in the Intellectual Property Group at Cassels. An accomplished intellectual property litigator, he is certified as a Specialist in Intellectual Property (Patents/Trademarks/Copyright) by the Law Society of Ontario. Mark offers significant experience in patent and trademark litigation, including in proceedings involving pharmaceutical and biologic products under the Patented Medicines (Notice of Compliance) Regulations, as well as in anti-counterfeiting, trade secret and breach of confidence, copyright and industrial design disputes. Mark has successfully argued numerous precedent-setting intellectual property cases at trial and on appeal.

Described as a “gifted appellate and trial lawyer” who “inspires confidence” and provides “smart and practical” advice, Mark is consistently recognized by clients and peers for both his trademark and patent litigation skills in publications such as Chambers, Lexpert, IAM Patent 1000, WTR Trademark 1000, IP Stars, Best Lawyers in Canada, and the Lexpert/ALM Guide to the Leading 500 Lawyers in Canada.

Mark is also a Registered Trademark Agent who designs brand strategies and manages trademark portfolios for some of the world’s largest companies.

Recent representative experience includes:

- McCain Foods Limited v. J.R. Simplot Company, 2019 FC 1635, 2021 FC 890, 2021 FCA 4, 2021 CanLII 58911 (SCC) – representing McCain Foods in patent litigation relating to pulsed electric field technology
- J.R. Simplot Company v. McCain Foods Limited, Court File No. T-569-17 - represented McCain Foods in an industrial design infringement action relating to the design of twisted potato products
- The Clorox Company – representing Clorox in Canadian litigation and brand strategy
- Bayer Inc. v. Fresenius Kabi Canada Ltd., 2016 FC 581 and 2016 FC 970 – obtained an order under the Patented

Medicines (Notice of Compliance) Regulations preventing approval of generic equivalent to Bayer's AVELOX I.V. product – this decision is significant because it is one of the rare times a prohibition order was granted on the basis that the notice of allegation was insufficient

- Canadian Urban Transit Association v. Dovden Investments Ltd., Federal Court File No. T-1337-13 – successfully argued that the Canadian Urban Transit Association, an industry association, had standing to bring a patent impeachment proceeding in a representative capacity on behalf of its members against the defendant, Dovden, a non-practicing entity [patent troll] in this precedent-setting case
- Denturist Group of Ontario v. Denturist Association of Canada, 2014 FC 989 – successful application to expunge certain trademark and copyright registrations that were being asserted by the Denturist Association of Canada and the Denturist Association of Ontario against members of a rival professional organization
- Meyer Housewares Canada Inc. ats. Bodum USA, Inc., 2012 FC 1450; affirmed 2013 FCA 240 – successfully argued eight-day trademark infringement, passing off and depreciation of goodwill case – counterclaim successfully resulted in FRENCH PRESS trademark being declared invalid – marshalled overwhelming fact and expert evidence showing that French Press did not function as a trademark
- Michael Kors, LLC v. Beyond the Rack Enterprises Inc., 2012 FC 1355; affirmed Beyond the Rack Enterprises Inc v. Kors, 2013 FCA 107 – trademark infringement, passing off, depreciation of goodwill, unfair competition and copyright action on behalf of Michael Kors against unauthorized Internet reseller – precedent setting Federal Court of Appeal case established that "...as a practical matter BTR may well be unable to defeat MK's claims by simply asserting that it acquired the goods from an authorized distributor, without producing any supporting evidence..."
- Timbercon, Inc. ats Oz Optics Limited, 2011 ONCA 714 – appeal from successful trial judgment (2010 ONSC 310) in defence of breach of confidence action – the Ontario Court of Appeal reversed the trial judge on the limited issue of negligent misrepresentation

A prolific writer and popular speaker, Mark has taken active leadership roles in many important professional associations for intellectual property law in Canada and the United States. Recent publications and presentations include:
