Biography

Sherry Rath is an associate in the Business Law Group at Cassels. Sherry's practice focuses on assisting clients with general corporate and commercial matters with a focus on the energy industry, including renewable energy projects.

Sherry has assisted clients on asset acquisitions and dispositions, internal reorganizations, corporate mergers and acquisitions, and joint venture arrangements. Sherry's experience includes analyzing and drafting corporate charter documents, corporate agreements, and conducting due diligence.

As an articling student, Sherry gained valuable in-house experience on the legal team at a leading Canadian energy infrastructure company researching and advising on midstream and regulatory matters. She also obtained industry experience through work as an engineering student at a large oil sands joint venture operation, and as a law student at both a large international oil and gas company, and a Canadian company that had undergone proceedings under the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act.

Prior to joining Cassels, Sherry served as an associate in the Business Law Group of another national law firm.
