Biography

Alex Parken is a partner in the Capital Markets Group at Cassels, specializing in mergers & acquisitions, securities, and corporate law. Through his extensive experience advising both public and private companies, Alex is able to expertly navigate clients through every phase of the business lifecycle.

Alex's practice encompasses a broad spectrum of transactions and matters, including capital markets, capital formation, venture capital, private equity, mergers and acquisitions (M&A), corporate governance, and listings on the TSX and TSX Venture Exchange. He provides strategic counsel to issuers and dealers, guiding them through complex regulatory and market landscapes.

In addition to his advisory role, Alex actively contributes to the governance of organizations by serving as a director and officer for various private and public companies, and he offers a unique perspective having worked for an investment banking firm specializing in M&A advisory services. These experiences enhance his ability to offer practical, business-oriented advice and insight.

Passionate about supporting entrepreneurs and high-growth enterprises, Alex excels in building strong, trusting relationships with his clients. He is deeply committed to their success and brings a wealth of experience and a client-focused approach to every engagement.
