Biography

Thomas Isaac* is Co-Chair of the firm's Business Law Group and Chair of the firm's Aboriginal Law Group. A nationally recognized authority in Aboriginal law, Tom advises business and government clients across Canada on Aboriginal legal matters and related regulatory, environmental assessment, negotiations and constitutional issues. Tom has extensive national experience advising energy, oil, gas, pipeline, mining, forestry, real estate and transportation companies, and federal, provincial, territorial, municipal and Indigenous governments and agencies on Aboriginal, regulatory and constitutional matters. He regularly negotiates on behalf of industry and governments concerning impact, benefit, economic development, replacement tenure, and access agreements with Aboriginal groups, and advises on Aboriginal consultation and accommodation processes and agreements. In recognition of his important and significant work in this area, Tom was honoured as one of Canada's "Top 25 Most Influential" lawyers by Canadian Lawyer magazine in 2018.

Tom's litigation practice is national in scope and focuses on representing clients in Aboriginal-related matters before courts and tribunals across Canada, including: Supreme Court of Canada, Federal Court of Canada, Ontario, British Columbia and PEI Courts of Appeal and lower courts, Manitoba Court of King's Bench, New Brunswick Court of King's Bench, Northwest Territories, and Yukon Supreme Courts; and the Canadian Energy Regulator (formerly the National Energy Board), Ontario Energy Board, and British Columbia Environmental Appeal Board. His published works on Aboriginal law have been cited with approval by Canadian courts, including the Supreme Court of Canada and the Federal Court of Appeal. Tom has also served as a mediator involving complex, multi-jurisdictional Aboriginal-related disputes.

Tom is a former Chief Treaty Negotiator for the Government of British Columbia and former Assistant Deputy Minister responsible for establishing Nunavut for the Government of the Northwest Territories. He also served in a senior capacity with the Government of Saskatchewan dealing with Aboriginal issues. Tom has published extensively in Aboriginal law, including 14 books, most notably Aboriginal Law, 5th Ed.

Tom was appointed as the Minister's Special Representative to the Minister of Indigenous and Northern Affairs regarding a Section 35 Métis Rights and Reconciliation Framework and a reconciliation approach for the Supreme Court of Canada's decision in Manitoba Métis Federation v. Canada. His Report – A Matter of National and Constitutional Import: Métis Section 35 Rights and the Manitoba Metis Federation Decision – was released by Canada in July 2016. Tom also served as the Minister's Special Representative to the Minister of Indigenous and Northern Affairs and the Premier of the Northwest Territories regarding the Akaitcho Dene and NWT Métis Nation negotiations in the Northwest Territories. His Report – A Path to Reconciliation – was released by both governments in March 2017.

Tom is presently serving as the Minister's Special Representative for the Minister of Indigenous and Northern Affairs regarding the Gottfriedson class action settlement agreements with the Government of Canada relating to residential school day students.
