Cassels Holds Inaugural Legal Innovation Forum

On October 3, 2017, Cassels held its inaugural legal innovation forum, Leading E-dge Benchmark, with special guest Professor Daniel Katz and representatives from legal departments pioneering in the area of legal practice innovation.

This forum took a practical look at the current realities and future possibilities for innovative in-house law departments and law firms to deliver legal services that rise to today's challenges as well as those we may face in the future.

The event supported NPower Canada, a charitable organization that reduces poverty in Canada by addressing youth unemployment, launching underserved young adults into meaningful and sustainable digital careers. Learn more about NPower Canada here.
